Scholarship Guide

General
collegescholarships.org
carsonscholars.org/scholarships epsilon sigma alpha.org/scholarships-and-grants fastweb.com
fastaid.com
free-4u.com
scholarships.com
scholarshipexperts.com
scholarshiphunter.com
supercollege.com
superscholar.org/scholarships/25-popular-college-scholarships/weeklyscholarshipalert.com wiredscholar.com
scholarshipamerica.org/open_scholarships.php scholarshipexperts.com/college-scholarships/index.htx
http://blog.saltmoney.org/tag/scholarships/
schoolsoup.com

State and Local
Missouri Department of Higher Education: dhe.mo.gov/ppc/grants/
Missouri Department of American Legion: http://www.missourilegion.org/default_016.htm
James L. and Nellie M. Westlake Scholarship: http://sms.scholarshipamerica.org/westlake/
Greater Kansas City Community Foundation: gkccf.org/scholarships

*Kansas City Missouri Opportunities Scholarship Fund – KC residents 17-25yr

Ethnicity
blackexcel.org/06-200-free-scholarships-minorities.htm
scholarships.fatomei.com/minorities.html
hispanicfund.org/programs/college/scholarships
hsf.net
uncf.org/forstudents/scholarship.asp

Disabilities
afb.org
disabled-world.com/disability/education/scholarships/disabilityscholarships.us/disaboom.com/scholarships
www.onlineschools.org/financial-aid/disabilities/

Military/Veterans
aid.military.com/scholarship/search-for-scholarships.do mymilitaryeducation.org
militaryscholar.org/sfmc/index.html
Scholarship Search Tips

- Start Early! Most scholarship deadlines are in March or April.
- BEWARE of scholarship scams! Watch out for phrases like: “This scholarship is guaranteed”, “You can’t get this information anywhere else”, “We need your credit card or account information”, “You’ve been selected/or are the finalist” for an award you have never applied for, “The scholarship requires a small fee or attend a seminar on how to get financial aid for a small fee”. For more information or to report a scam: Federal Trade Commission www.ftc.gov.
- Note if the scholarship is renewable.
- Keep applying for scholarships. You will be in school more than one year.

Where to Look

- High school students – check with high school counselor for possible scholarship opportunities
- Contact all colleges you are interested in to find out about their scholarship opportunities.
- Check to see if your employer and/or your parents’ employers, if relevant, provide scholarships.
- Professional organizations/associations representing individuals in your intended career field
- Military-connected individuals look for scholarships that have this as a criterion.
- Do you belong to a church, synagogue or other religious organization?
- Are you or your parents a member of a trade group, club, union, or association?
- Do you or your parents belong to any service organizations such as Jaycees, Lions, Elks, etc.?
- Are you or your parents a member of a fraternity or sorority?
- Colleges might have scholarships for children of alumni if your parents graduated from college.
- Large organizations and businesses often provide scholarships to students who live in the area. Think of banking institutions, large retailers, manufacturing, high tech businesses, etc. in your hometown (or where you live now). Contact them directly to see if they offer scholarships.

Application Tips

- Scholarship committees want to give funding to students who will be successful in their education. Your challenge is to “prove” to scholarship committees that you are a good investment! On your scholarship applications, you need to demonstrate that you have qualities that will make you successful, such as: leadership, initiative, determination, integrity, service to your community, overcoming obstacles, commitment.... The list could go on and on. Start by identifying your skills, values, and strengths, then outline examples of past experiences where you have demonstrated these qualities.
- Use a tracking chart to organize the process: scholarship organization and address, application deadline, date you applied, required materials, date you should hear from them, etc.
- Budget time devoted to researching and applying for scholarships. This process takes time, commitment, and persistence!
- Carefully read the essay questions for each scholarship. Write specifically about what the essay directions tell you to write about. Grammar, punctuation, and spelling need to be flawless. No typos!

Revised Sept. 2012