

FINDING OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY ARTICLES USING THE INTERNET

AMERICAN JOURNAL OF OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY

- Full text is not available online
- Use MEDLINE (MEDLINE/PubMed) to find citations
- Type MEDLINE into a search engine
(web address is www.nlm.nih.gov/databases/databases_medline.html)
- Click on PubMed
- Type the subject needed on the search line at the top of the page and American Journal of Occupational Therapy (adaptive technology and American Journal of Occupational Therapy)
- Make note of the article title, publication date, and page number
- For full text, get the journal from the Periodical Room in the MCC-Penn Valley Library (issues are available 5 years back)

OTJR: OCCUPATION, PARTICIPATION AND HEALTH (former title: Occupational Therapy Journal of Research)

- Full text is available online only for a fee
- Go to the web site of the journal for abstracts
<http://www.otjronline.com>
- Click on current issue or back issues
- Use search box at top of screen
- Choose All words from drop-down menu
- After clicking on search, click on title of desired article (an abstract will appear)
- Make note of the article title, publication date, b and page number
- For full text, get the journal from the Periodical Room in the MCC-Penn Valley Library (issues are available 5 years back)