

Metropolitan Community College Network and Computer Systems Acceptable Use Policy Overview

<http://mcckc.edu/Users/email/NCSAUPolicy.html>

All users of MCC computing systems and networks must read, understand, and comply with the policies outlined in the MCC Acceptable Use Policy webpage.

Users will be permitted access to computer resources and facilities through an account established by MCC.

Access and privileges on MCC's network and computer systems will be assigned and managed by Network User Services (NUS).

Under no circumstances will users transfer or confer these privileges to other individuals, or use an account assigned to another individual.

Persons using MCC computing resources and facilities through MCC-owned equipment will respect the integrity of computing resources and facilities, respect the rights of other users, and comply with all relevant regulations, PRPs, and contractual agreements.

MCC reserves the right to access all information stored on MCC owned computers and equipment.

MCC reserves the right to monitor and review the use of computing resources and facilities of MCC, which include hardware, software, and network environment.

Failure to comply with MCC policies, regulations and procedures (PRPs), and applicable federal, state and international regulations may result in restriction or revocation of access to MCC computer resources.

MCC will not limit adult users' access to any information due to its content when access meets the standard of legality and when it is sought in connection with academic pursuits.

Individuals using MCC's computer resources and facilities will use computer accounts only for authorized purposes and will report to the appropriate NUS coordinator any incident which appears to violate this regulation.

MCC reserves the right to suspend or terminate any activities that are deemed unauthorized or unacceptable use of computer resources, to take other appropriate action including suspension or expulsion of students or termination of employees.
